The Tigers ever have been tricky, shifty and since the advent of Bill Roper, but this time they are developing more stratagems than they have shown in e last half dozen years. To make up for his shortcomings in the quarterback position and at several other places Roper has gone in strongly for

We understand that while Princeton ven if pressed in Chicago, may not let verything out of the bag, it has a wide operatoire which includes two shifts, a porward pass modeled after that worked by Rodgers's great West Virginia team in 1919, when the Tigers were over-whelmed, and another air attack work-ing out of a spread similar to that which was used by Colgate in the years gone by, when Anderson embodied a re-

The smashing end of 1921 and 1920 has been discarded, both because the rules forbid it and because Roper had had his fill of it. But in its place the Tigers are said to have been working on a slant off tackle which looks a lot like the highly deceptive weapon with which Colgate bathered the Orange and Elack incordinately a few weeks ago.

Harvard and Yale will find Pagenkopt piloting the Tigers.

Roper has been having his worries at nearly every position. At this advanced stage he still is undecided as to the relative merits of some of the candidates. At center, where the Tigers have been having difficulties ever since Red Gennert was graduated, Alford and Griffin are having it out, with and Griffin are having it out, with Alford favored slightly. Roper has set-tled on his guards—Dickenson and Snively—and on his tackles—Treat and

When it comes to the last word in deception in football we must look to Penn State and Bezdelt's coaching Many have tried to imitate the State style, but nobody has succeeded in matching it. Colgate, under Dick Harlow, and Dickinson, under Gienn Killinger, have something like the Bezdek stuff this season. But the Penn State game is by far the heat thing of its game is by far the best thing of its game is by far the best thing of its kind conceived.

Harvard's football under Haughton was highly deceptive. It still possesses a lot of that quality. But the Penn State deception goes farther than Haughton's. There is a lot of milling in the backfield—closely knit attack which hides the ball, feints, parries, thrusts. There is a lot of double passing—a maneuver which injects a lot of danger into the game, but looks great if it succeeds. There is a lot of screening by the line and the backs.

Syracuse, which is to play Penn State at the Polo Grounds to-morrow, has a st of power, but has not yet learned to get commensurate results. Its backs re slow in starting. Bowman is the lest, but he, too, is not without faults. He needs more protection than Syracuse

Gridiron Small Talk. * * Watch Yale to-morrow, but watch the Army, too. * * The Elis ought to win, but the Army will make things hot for the Blue. * * Willlams threatens to spring a big surprise on Columbia. * * Let's hope this decision stays put. * * Looks as if there ought to be a board of verification to go over the scores each Monday. * * Here's one decision that Many Claims for Lafayette.

Our statement last Monday that Harivard looked like the strongest team in the East at this stage has brought many claims on behalf of Lafayette. There is no question that the Easton eleven is better balanced and more powerful than it was last fall, and that it ranks, with the top notchers. But it was our humble opinion that the Crimson, with what it showed and with its potentialities, was a most formidable machine. We are glad to print a letter from Dr. John West, the physician to the Lafayette team. It follows:

"Every one likes to boost his favorite, so allow me to give one to the Lafayette state the measure of any team in the East at the present time. You were kind enough to mention Lafayette as one of the teams in the first flight. Our contention here in Pennsylvania is that the caliber of football as played by Pittsburgh, W. & J., Penn State and Lafayette probably averages every bit as good as that of the so-called big three.

Roper is both a progressive and an opportunist, and if a Coigate play looks good to him he will pick it up and go on with it. Football plays are not copyrighted, but many coaches do not seem to know it.

Roper's chief work, of course, has been centered about his quarterback. He has tried Pagenkopf, who was hurt in the John. Hopkins game—he has tried Bergen, Dinsmore and Gorman and has Wingate in reserve. Gorman, it appears, will be tried against Chicago, with Bergen second choice. Down at Princeton they believe that unless Gorman comes through in great style against the Maroon the big games with Harvard and Yale will find Pagenkopf piloting the Tigers.

Snively is not our idea of a guard, but he is the best thrower in the East and cannot be spared. Roper does not think him fast enough for an end, which he' was last senson, or a back.

Gray and Tillson look like the best pair of ends right now, but Gaines and Smith are close up—and none of the four is a Legendre. Cleaves is the one back sure of his job. Caldwell and Emery are having it out for Wittmer's job at fullback, with duties main's defensive, while Crum seems to have the call over Newby and Euwer for one of the halves.

When the main objectives roll around look for Van Gerbig in there and maybe Beattie, who has failed to develop his potentialities thus far, but looks like quite a football player.
